

Hawai'i Parent-Teen Driving Agreement

What is a Parent-Teen Driving Agreement?

A Parent-Teen Driving Agreement is a formal agreement between parents and their teen driver that outlines specific guidelines that parents and teens agree to follow. The agreement also establishes consequences and provides discussion points for not following the agreement. The agreement includes elements of Hawai'i's Graduated Driver Licensing Law to ensure that teens follow state law.

Why Use a Parent-Teen Driving Agreement?

Did you know that motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for teenagers in the United States? In Hawai'i, more than 700 16-19 year old teens are killed or injured each year. Unfortunately, teen drivers put everyone at risk including friends, other drivers, pedestrians and family members. Recent studies show that two-thirds of the people killed in fatal crashes by teen drivers are persons other than the teen driver.

Why Do Teens Crash?

A number of studies have looked at why teens have such high crash rates. The top reasons teens crash include:

- Inexperience—teen drivers are new drivers and lack experience behind the wheel.
- Poor Visual Search Skills—teen drivers have difficulty knowing when and where to look to identify potential hazards on the roadway.
- Inattention or Distraction—teens are often distracted from the driving task, which can put them at increased risk for crashing.
- Speed Management—teens often have difficulty choosing the appropriate speed for driving conditions, including wet weather and other hazardous road conditions.
- Space Management—teens have difficulty judging how much time and space is needed to maneuver safely when driving.

Other factors that put teen drivers at risk include: other passengers in the vehicle, speeding, aggressive driving, alcohol or other drugs, nighttime driving, and lack of seat belt use.

How Should Parents and Teens Use the Parent-Teen Driving Agreement?

The agreement communicates that driving is a privilege that parents and teens should take seriously. It spells out the rules, responsibilities and consequences for both the parent and teen driver. Parents and teens should talk about the driving agreement and enter into the agreement together. After all, driving is the most dangerous milestone in a teens' life. Parental involvement and enforcement are key to reducing teens' risk.

Parents and teens should dedicate enough time to thoroughly read and discuss the agreement. It is important to talk about each item and make sure that both the parent and teen understand the risk and consequences for breaking the agreement before signing. Be sure that both the parent and teen initial after discussing each area. Parents may want to consider imposing additional restrictions including taking away video games or social privileges for breaking the agreement or consider keeping restrictions in place longer than Hawai'i law requires. After the agreement and consequences have been discussed and initialed, both the parent and teen should date and sign at the bottom of the agreement. The agreement should be kept in a location that is easily accessible for future discussions. It is a good idea to bring out the agreement on a regular basis to review as your teen gains more driving experience.

What is Graduated Driver Licensing (GDL)?

The Parent-Teen Driving Agreement includes detailed information on Hawai'i Graduated Driver Licensing. The Hawai'i Graduated Driver Licensing Law and its restrictions are designed to ease teen drivers into the driving environment and encourage parent involvement. All teens under age 18 are subject to a graduated driver licensing system to obtain a license in Hawai'i. Hawai'i GDL mandates a three-stage approach for young, novice drivers by restricting their exposure to dangerous driving situations, including night-time driving and passenger restrictions.

Most teen crashes happen early in the teen's driving career. Therefore, it is important that all stages of GDL be followed to help minimize crash risk. Restrictions imposed by the law certainly help, but the best combination is a knowledgeable parent working through the learn-to-drive process with the new driver. Parental involvement is a key part of a teen learning to be a safe driver.
